

Fabulous scenery, wonderful main line trains, impressive narrow gauge steam lines, friendly people and really good food. This is as close as you'll get to the perfect holiday!

Tour Highlights

- Ride the Durango-Silverton and the Cumbres and Toltec
- See the best of the BIG trains – Union Pacific on Sherman Hill
- See the best of the BIG trains – BNSF on the Joint Line
- Ride the train to the summit of Pikes Peak, 14,110 feet!
- Visit the National Park at the Black Canyon of the Gunnison
- Visit to the impressive New Belgian Brewery
- Ride a 1919 Birney streetcar (tram) in Fort Collins
- Visit the Union Pacific Steam Centre at Cheyenne to see their LARGE steam locomotive collection
- Plenty of attractions for non-railway enthusiasts
- All the scenic and retail attractions of Colorado – plus LOTS more!

The tour is being run using minibuses, which will allow flexibility. We have deliberately not included meals (except where shown) in this tour – there is such a wide variety of options, and meals are so cheap by British standards (with enormous portions), we feel it is better to deal with meals on an informal basis when you decide whether a full meal or a snack is appropriate! See our note at the end on “What’s included”

Saturday 5 June

We can offer departures from many UK airports for your flight to Denver for an evening arrival at Denver’s airport. We will be at the top of the escalator in the main terminal to meet you. There’s a short journey to our home for the next night, the Super 8 at Westminster, Denver. If you’re hungry after the flight, we can arrange a visit to one of the local diners.

Sunday 6 June

After breakfast, we visit the Colorado Railway Museum at Golden, with plenty of steam and diesel locomotives, both standard and narrow gauge to see. Then it’s the Joint Line. This heads south from Denver is jointly owned by the two big rail companies in the West – Union Pacific and BNSF (as successors to the Denver and Rio Grande Western, and the Santa Fe). We can expect to see coal trains – 15,000 tons with three locomotives, all working flat out going south. There are some beautiful spots for photography and we’ll head south to spend the night at Colorado Springs. Our favourite restaurant is the Front Range Barbecue, good food and a wide choice of drinks.

Monday 7 June

After breakfast, we take the short journey west to Manitou Springs for the newly rebuilt train ride on the rack railway up to the summit of Pikes Peak, one of Colorado’s famous “fourteeners” – summits over 14,000 feet. The views from the summit are stupendous, north, south, east and west. Several different states are visible, and it is possible to see back to Denver, some 70 miles away. Be warned, at 14,000 feet, the air is thin, so move slowly, and bring something warm to wear – it’ll be chilly! There will be time after this for a visit to The Garden of the Gods, with amazing sandstone rock formations. What is even more amazing is that these used to be the sea-bed!

Tuesday 8 June

A short journey west to Cripple Creek has us back a century or so, with this small line giving us a 45-minute ride through this old gold-mining district. We then head south and arrive at the Royal Gorge Railroad for a ride through the Gorge with its famous 'hanging bridge' behind an old GM diesel. In the late afternoon, we'll take the long drive towards Antonito ready for the next day's trip. We'll stop for the night (and dinner) in Alamosa.

Wednesday 9 June

A full day out on the Cumbres and Toltec Railway, Our steam-hauled train leaves Antonito at 10:00 and runs behind steam over the San Juan mountains to Chama via the fabulous Tanglefoot Curve and Windy Point, over the summit at 10,000 feet. We'll spend the night at the Trails Inn close to the High Country Restaurant and Fina's Diner – where the Cumbres & Toltec staff eat!(Lunch included)

Thursday 10 June

We'll spend the morning chasing the eastbound C&T train up the steep bit from Chama to Cumbres Pass – the grade is 1 in 25 most of the way, and the loco REALLY works hard! We will then head west via Pagosa Springs through beautiful Western countryside to Durango, our base for the night. We hope to have a private tour of the Durango & Silverton's locoshed and works with a long-serving D&S employee. Durango, as a holiday town, has a wide variety of restaurants, including a cheap and cheerful, and very entertaining pizza parlour, mainly inhabited by the locals, who are usually very chatty, and interested in hearing how 'foreigners' view life!

Friday 11 June

Our day out on the most famous of Colorado's narrow-gauge lines, the Durango and Silverton. We'll book in the rearmost gondola (an open car with a roof) and leave Durango at 08:45. This gives us the best views as the train traverses the 'High Line' way above the Animas River before following the river valley all the way up to Silverton. There's a couple of hours to explore this fascinating old mining town before the train returns to Durango.

Saturday 12 June

For those who wish, we'll chase the two morning trains up to Rockwood for some great photos. Then we will leave Durango and follow the course of the fabled Rio Grande Southern through Dolores (where we can stop to visit the 'Galloping Goose' museum – the Geese were the trademark of this remote line and we've been promised a very short ride up the 100 yards of track outside the restored station), Ophir, Rico and Lizard Head Pass. We'll continue to Montrose, calling at the Ridgway Railway Museum on the way.

Sunday 13 June

We have a day of fabulous scenery. We head east, and will visit another of America's National Parks, the Black Canyon of the Gunnison, 2,000feet deep and a worthy second only to the Grand Canyon. We will follow the South Rim to the best viewpoints. We then continue east, driving round the beautiful Blue Mesa Reservoir and into Gunnison, a true Western town. There should be time to visit the County Pioneer Museum, close to our motel, which contains the old Denver & Rio Grande locomotive 268 in the famous 'bumblebee' livery.

Monday 14 June

Railway interest and scenery. We'll drive over the old Marshall Pass, once on the Rio Grande's narrow gauge main line to Gunnison. Marshall Pass summit used to be in a complete wooden snowshed, remains of which still exist. After passing through Poncha Springs, we follow the course of the old Tennessee Pass railroad to Leadville, Colorado's best preserved mining town. If we make it in time, we can ride the Leadville Colorado & Southern up to Climax – it's an experience to remember. Dinner is at Quincy's where the only item on the menu is filet mignon of excellent quality! Choice? Yes, there's a choice: what size do you want?

Tuesday 15 June

We continue down to the Georgetown Loop, where we'll take a train trip over the spindly Devils Gate Bridge. We then continue, via the northern outskirts of Denver, and head north (with a compulsory stop at Johnson's Corner for cinnamon buns like you've never tasted before) to Fort Collins, where we will arrange a visit to the New Belgian Brewery, which has a fascinating history, and brews the excellent 'Fat Tire' beer

Wednesday 16 June

In the morning, we will have a ride on one of Fort Collins vintage streetcars, Birney car number 21, from the City Park down Mountain Avenue. This is an excellent volunteer-run project, and the crew are always willing to talk about their vehicle. We will then continue to Cheyenne, the Union Pacific's base for its steam locomotives. As a priority, we'll visit the Union Pacific's steam centre in Cheyenne where we will be able to view their collection of large steam locomotives, including the 844, a large 4-8-4, and Big Boy 4014, and even-larger 4-8-8-4 (unless they are out on Union Pacific PR work)..

Thursday 17 June

We will head west to see the best spots on Sherman Hill – Borie, Otto Road, Granite, Buford, Tie Siding and Dale Creek to watch the big trains running between the West Coast and Chicago. Watching 15,000 horsepower pulling 15,000 tons up a 1 in 50 grade is awesome! Back in Cheyenne, the station is well worth visiting in its own right, and we will arrange a visit to the Museum there with its superb HO scale model railway. For dinner, there is a bistro at the station, where (weather permitting) it is possible to eat on the old platform one, within a few feet of transcontinental freight trains pausing for crew changes.

Friday 18 June

We'll take an early morning trip the five miles east to the top of Archer Hill, a great place to photograph eastbounds climbing round an enormous S-bend. In one of Cheyenne's parks, there is a plinthed "Big Boy", the twin of the one that Union Pacific are rebuilding. Mid-morning, we will drive back down the Interstate to Denver. We will call at the Forney museum with its collection of steam locomotives and many historic American cars and plenty else. Also, there is more conventional shopping in Denver's city centre 16th Street Mall, the local equivalent of Oxford Street.

Saturday 19 June

After breakfast and packing for departure, we'll do our best to get you out to the airport for your flight home to ...

Sunday 20 June

...Britain, arriving in the morning.

We will endeavour to provide airport transfers in Denver for those arranging their own flights, but it may be necessary to take a cab or bus (there is an excellent direct hourly bus service from the 'park-and-ride' opposite our motel).

What's included

Economy class flights from the London (but see also below).

Continental breakfasts are included at most of our accommodations, but otherwise meals are NOT included, except where noted. Appetites vary, and all America is full of dining options, from fast food upwards. Our experience is that allowing everyone to make a choice on the day, we all eat where we want, when we want. Your tour manager will be pleased to discuss all the options available at meal times, and we have found that this 'individually cooked' approach works much better, and allows for individual preferences, than a continuing procession of hotel buffets. Accommodation is generally in reasonable motels, either a national chain, or individual motels we know well. We include all transport, train rides and excursions as set out in the itinerary and the services of a Darjeeling Tours Limited Tour Manager. (Personal and incidental expenses are not included).

Fully inclusive price from London: £ 3,795 (based on two people sharing).

Ground only price: £2,995 (based on two people sharing)

Single supplement £695

Flights

If you would prefer to travel to Denver from a regional UK airport, we will do our best to find you something suitable. It usually works well from Birmingham, Manchester and Edinburgh, and can sometimes work from other airports too.

Please note that all carriers, train times and flight times are subject to change at any time.
